

Andrew Corbett

The Paul T. Babson Chair of Entrepreneurial Studies

B.A., Suffolk University

M.B.A., Bentley University

Ph.D., University of Colorado, Boulder

Andrew Corbett is The Paul T. Babson Chair of Entrepreneurial Studies and Chair of the Entrepreneurship Division, at Babson College. Professor Corbett also holds an appointment as a Visiting Professor of Entrepreneurship at Nord University Business School in Bodø, Norway.

An accomplished researcher, author, and editor, Professor Corbett's extensive, practical experience allows him to distill the latest management, innovation, and entrepreneurship research to help practicing professionals move their organizations forward. He has been recognized for his excellence in teaching on both the undergraduate and graduate level on numerous occasions. He has also been awarded the Dean's Award for Teaching Excellence in Executive Education at Babson College. Nationally, he has been honored with the McGraw-Hill Innovation in Entrepreneurship Pedagogy Award by the Academy of Management. From this base he consults and teaches entrepreneurs and corporate clients across the globe. He is also one of the lead instructors in Babson's Symposium for Entrepreneurship Educators (SEE) program.

A 2018 research study named Professor Corbett as one of the "Top 25 Entrepreneurship Researchers in the World." This independent research article published in the Journal of Business Management noted that his work was among the most cited and impactful since the turn of the century. Professor Corbett's research examines behavioral aspects of the entrepreneurial process and the role of individuals within strategic renewal and innovation efforts within organizations. His research has appeared in scholarly outlets including Harvard Business Review, the Journal of Management Studies, the Journal of Business Venturing, Strategic Entrepreneurship Journal, Entrepreneurship: Theory & Practice, and many others.

Professor Corbett is currently an editor for the Journal of Business Venturing, and co-editor of the Advances in Entrepreneurship, Firm Emergence, and Growth book series. In 2017, Entrepreneurship (4th edition, Wiley), a textbook he co-authored with other senior Babson faculty was released. His latest scholarly book, Hybrid Ventures: Perspectives & Approaches to Blended Value Entrepreneurship (Emerald) was also published in late 2017. Professor Corbett is also the co-author of Beyond the Champion: Institutionalizing Innovation Through People (Stanford University Press, 2018) which examines how large organizations need to design roles and careers for their people in order to achieve optimal innovation performance.

Professor Corbett serves the Babson community in numerous ways but most notably in the Butler Launchpad where he assists with strategic direction and the mentoring of young entrepreneurs. He has led or been a member of over a dozen committees or task forces for the Entrepreneurship Division of the Academy of Management.

Before coming to Babson, Professor Corbett was MBA Director, Associate Professor, and Faculty Director of the Severino Center for Technological Entrepreneurship at the Lally School of Management & Technology at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. He has also taught at the University of Colorado and Bentley University. Prior to working in academia he spent over a decade in marketing, sales, and strategic management positions within the media and publishing industries.